THE ENDURING ASSETS OF WASHINGTON AND LEE

It has been said that Washington and Lee is sui generis among American institutions of higher learning. Although this statement was made in a well-defined and limited context, students and alumni have sometimes inquired into the factors which have made of their University something different, something perhaps rather special. Even a cursory examination of the school's long history reveals aspects which have distinguished it from the run-of-the-mill American college.

First of all, Washington and Lee has been fortunate in its physical setting. The initial impression upon a visitor to the campus is one of serene beauty, symmetry, and dignity, which together with the restored Lee chapel constitutes a priceless asset. John Drinkwater, the British playwright, visiting the campus a half-century ago, pronounced it the most beautiful in America. As important as all this may be, other features in the Washington and Lee story are of greater importance than the mere physical characteristics.

Beginning with General R. E. Lee's presidency, and extending to the present time, students and alumni have exhibited a profound pride in their institution, in its presidents, in its officials, in its faculty, and in it students and graduates. Whenever any of these won distinction, whether in public service, in scholarship, or on the athletic field, such achievements were certain to be noted in the old Southern Collegian (now, alas! of blessed memory), in the Ring-tum Phi, or in the Calyx, with quiet but heartfelt praise. It is unnecessary to mention the devotion of "General Lee's boys" to their hero-president, while his son and successor, G. W. Curtis Lee, though painfully retiring, was held in affection and respect by the students. To cite other examples among the University's presidents who won and held the admiration, affection and loyalty of the young men were the learned and kindly William Lyne Wilson, the vigorous and efficient George H. Denny (who like General R. E. Lee knew each student and much about him), the high-minded idealist Henry Louis Smith, and the warm-hearted, eloquent Francis Pendleton Gaines. Pride in and enthusiasm for their youthful President Huntley is a condition of today's campus, and is as it should be. At Washington and Lee, as a general rule, the close relationships, even warm personal friendships, that have grown up between students and their teachers, characterize the school and distinguish it from the larger mass-production "multiversities."

Observers have noted, too, that in some instances, graduates who have gone on to further study at other universities, have compared them to Washington and Lee—and to the advantage of the latter. One need not be a chauvinist to suggest to the graduates of 1970 and of the classes ahead, that they cast a thoughtful glance at some features of Washington and Lee which have made it as great as it is and may become: pride in Alma Mater's achievements and qualities, friendliness, a decency in conduct, as evidenced by the honor system, a sense of tolerance of personal and institutional shortcomings (tempered, it may be, by humor), together with zeal and above all, humility in the learning process. These may be preserved amidst "change" and "progress", and lead Washington and Lee to the true greatness that is sometimes demanded in our day.

THE DIRECTION OF CHANGE AT WASHINGTON AND LEE

The task of Washington and Lee University as it enters the 1970's is two-fold. We need to retain the traditional strengths and basic values that have made Washington and Lee over the years the institution of distinction that it is today, while at the same time we must give new directions which the changes of the times require. Washington and Lee in 1970 is very much caught up in the tidal wave of change which is currently sweeping across the American college scene. On this campus, there appears to be one basic direction of recent changes in both the academic and the social spheres, namely the assumption by the individual student of much greater responsibility for his own education.

The revisions in the curriculum, effective with the 1970-71 session, are a manifestation of the belief that a student should have the maximum degree of freedom and responsibility in shaping his course of academic study, consistent with the breadth of a liberal arts education. The liberalized distribution requirements are an expression of the University's commitment to this philosophy. The new academic calendar of three terms is designed to encourage all students to pursue independent work and in-depth research to a much greater extent than has heretofore been possible. During his undergraduate years, a student should develop most of all the desire to continue learning, on his own, and the role of the new curriculum will be to encourage each student to learn for himself.

In the social sphere, the past year has seen significant departures from the concept of in loco parentis that has prevailed for so long on this campus. The liberalized dormitory and fraternity regulations and the removal of the last restrictions on student ownership and control of automobiles indicate an increasing regard for student maturity, as well as greater reliance on individual student responsibility for his actions outside the classroom. By the construction of the new University Center, the liberalized car regulations, and the recently enacted program of delayed fraternity pledging, the University is attempting to provide more viable alternatives for student social life and living arrangements. Hopefully, the construction of additional upperclass dormitory facilities in the next few years will widen the area of choice still further.

In addition to the construction of the new University Center, Washington and Lee is moving ahead to meet the most critical physical needs of the University. The addition to Doremus Gymnasium is now under construction, and new facilities for the Commerce School, the Law School, and the Library are in the planning stages. In other areas, University committees are already hard at work studying such basic questions as coeducation and optimum size of the University. Students are deeply involved in these deliberations, and careful consideration will be given to student opinion on all basic policy questions affecting the future course of this University.

The challenges of the 1970's are formidable indeed, but the changes of the recent past give cause for considerable optimism that Washington and Lee can continue to offer superior teaching for the individual student, while at the same time placing even greater responsibility on the shoulders of the individual student for his own education. The changes of the next decade should help to develop further the facility of critical thinking, just as the changes of recent years are challenging the student to think for himself, rather than to follow blindly rigid requirements and prescriptions laid down for him by others. This University is well aware that the valuable intellectual development is self development.

THE STUDENT

By substituting the professor for the parent, there is an inevitable inhibiting of the classroom. The professor's role as defender of student "morality" through acting as a disciplinary agent is simply outmoded. Certainly when the actions of a student are infringing seriously and ignorantly on the rights of others, when his actions threaten destruction, the university can still and should always have the right of expulsion. But Washington and Lee has no such problems and, undoubtedly as an exponent of its size, can genuinely expect none.

The university is a community sharing the pursuit of knowledge for its own sake. By its very name, university, the undertaking must be as broad and as wide as possible. The only restraints should be those which are not actually confining—the restraint of a disciplined mind which through its discipline opens up a range of possibilities heretofore unimagined. In this realm, the paradox is straightforward—you limit in order to expand. But the restraints of in loco parentis hinder this progress. They make the exchange of learning appear intrinsically a one-sided process. Perhaps this is one reason why Washington and Lee has been so bound by the lecture system, whereas the creative exchange possible in the seminar so often flounders. We simply think too implicitly that all knowledge originates in the person of the professor. Beyond any doubt the learning process best takes place with the teacher present as a sort of catalyst, with the real activities taking place within the student himself.

In line with the increased flexibility offered in the structure of the new curriculum, it seems that this is the time for a coincident change in the atmosphere of the student—teacher relationship at Washington and Lee, a change that would remove another artificial restraint in the communal path to knowledge.

DEDICATION

The 1970 Calyx is dedicated to a man who has all the usual qualities expected in one who receives this honor. Not only is he an excellent professor, but he is also very interested in his students, and participates actively in civic and political affairs.

His more unusual qualifications are also numerous. He has taught at the General War College. He has been an advisor of foreign and nuclear policy to NATO. His friends among the nuclear strategists of the world are many; his friends at Washington and Lee are countless.

It is not just these special attainments which makes this professor the unique person he is. Instead, it is his refreshing approach to education. It is his ability to lecture without notes. It is reaching the focal point of a lecture with an accompanying slap on the table and quick laugh. But what makes this man most outstanding is his enthusiasm for life in general and people in particular. Perhaps a statement once made by William Allen White could serve as an apt description of this man's personality: "He is what he is . . . a gentle, sincere, fair-minded man with courage and without pretense. He is not sophisticated and because he is kind, he is never rude."

With appreciation for his friendship and respect for his counsel the 1970 Calyx is dedicated to Dr. Milton Colvin.

WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY
LEXINGTON, VIRGINIA
OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

TO THE CLASS OF 1970:

I appreciate the opportunity to extend this greeting to the first graduating class of the 1970s, a class which has observed, and participated helpfully in, the process of change at Washington and Lee during the 1960s.

You have in many ways played a vital role in constructive changes, and you have witnessed an increasing effort by faculty and administration to make your role a significant one. I am well aware that some of the changes have not occurred in time for implementation while you were students, but we hope you will as alumni follow their course with acute interest. We shall endeavor to keep you informed.

The new curriculum, adopted by a faculty which drew heavily on your advice and assistance, will go into effect this Fall. It represents the renewed conviction of our total academic community that we can achieve our noblest educational aspirations; that we can find a way to afford to our students both the breadth of exposure and the depth of involvement which a liberally-educated man must have in these times.

Several changes entrusting to students an even larger measure of self-control of their campus life have been effected while you were here, in keeping with Washington and Lee's traditional commitment to student responsibility. Our objective, I believe, must be to enrich the diversity and depth of student life, consistent with our educational aims, to the end that we may more nearly achieve here that sense of community which counteracts intellectual isolation and stimulates mutual respect.

It is greatly to your credit that you have participated in the best kind of cooperative effort, without bitterness or rancor, with deliberate thought and with a large measure of respect for the interests and viewpoints of others.

The abiding values of this University's tradition can bring us to the contemporary challenges of higher education with a source of special strength. We will continue to look to you, as alumni, to share Washington and Lee's high aspirations for the future.

Robert E. R. Huntley

The year saw a wide variety of musical entertainment at W&L. Beginning with Homecomings, Ian and Sylvia presented a repertoire of folk music, along with some mild country and western ballads. Two weeks later at Openings, the Paul Butterfield Blues Band played almost continuously for two hours, wandering from rock to blues to soul and back again. The next night, Martha Reeves and the Vandellas sent the Motown Sound lovers home happy. Fancy Dress weekend featured the Glenn Miller Orchestra for the formal ball, which followed a theme of "Camelot," while the Saturday night concert was performed by the Friends of Distinction.

Many other groups performed around Lexington during the year. One band, Cancer, gained university-wide acclaim for their mind-blowing performances at various fraternity houses and numerous concerts in the Cockpit, as well as their almost daily rehearsals and jam sessions in the basement of the Student Union.

There was something for everybody.

CAMPUS SPEAKERS

The minute you arrive at college you look forward to outside attractions. These include the big names that play at dances, sing at concerts, and speak to students.

The first speaker heard is usually a man very famous within his own field, for whom your professor will call off class, provided, of course, that you will go hear the speech. You listen to him with the idea that some great knowledge is descending upon you (Or that you could be elsewhere at the time). Actually, it is probable that his speech is the concluding chapter from his forthcoming book (he averages one new book per year), and because he is such a widely acclaimed writer, it is only natural that he is also a very poor speaker. He reads the chapter as though it was the Sermon on the Mount, and any questions you may dare to ask he will consider foolish, irrelevant, or both.

Washington and Lee, on the whole, seems to attract more interesting speakers than the ones described above. Linwood Holton, Virginia's first Republican Governor of the century, and a W&L alumnus, returned to Lexington during the fall campaign, and spoke on campus. Dr. Norman Graebner, Stettinius Professor of History at the University of Virginia, demonstrated his ability to speak well during the annual Founders' Day assembly.

For contact Week, a number of speakers concerned themselves with some aspect of communications. Ed Grimsley of the Richmond Times-Dispatch conveyed the same humour in speaking which he does in writing his columns. Ramsey Clark, former Attorney General of the United States, expressed the same beliefs here which he did as Attorney General, and received widely varied reactions. Harold Hayes, Editor of Esquire, delivered some different views the lively arts. William Rusher, publisher of National Review, displayed an excellent ability for debating, much to the chagrin of some students who attempted to dispute him. Robert Goralski of NBC News provided some very interesting insights into the reporting of world news.

MORATORIUM

Following a national trend, the antiwar movement at W&L reached new heights this year. (It was finally formed.) On October 15, the first national moratorium day, classes were more or less cancelled; the prevailing attitude among professors was to allow each student to follow his own moral commitment, assuming that everybody had one. Some students attended the symposium in Lee Chapel, during which six speakers voiced six different opinions on the war. Almost everyone heard something they agreed with. Other students, those among the decreasing number of Americans unconcerned about the war, chose to sleep late and took the day off.

A month later, some W&L students traveled to Washington, D.C. and became a part of the hundreds of thousands gathered there to show their disapproval of the war.

In January, an antiwar organization was founded on campus. The number of students involved in the activities of the movement varied, but a core of people in the group claim they will not cease their efforts until the war is ended, one way or another. Some W&L students went through the year without being concerned about the war, but current trends indicate that such lack of commitment is becoming increasingly rare.

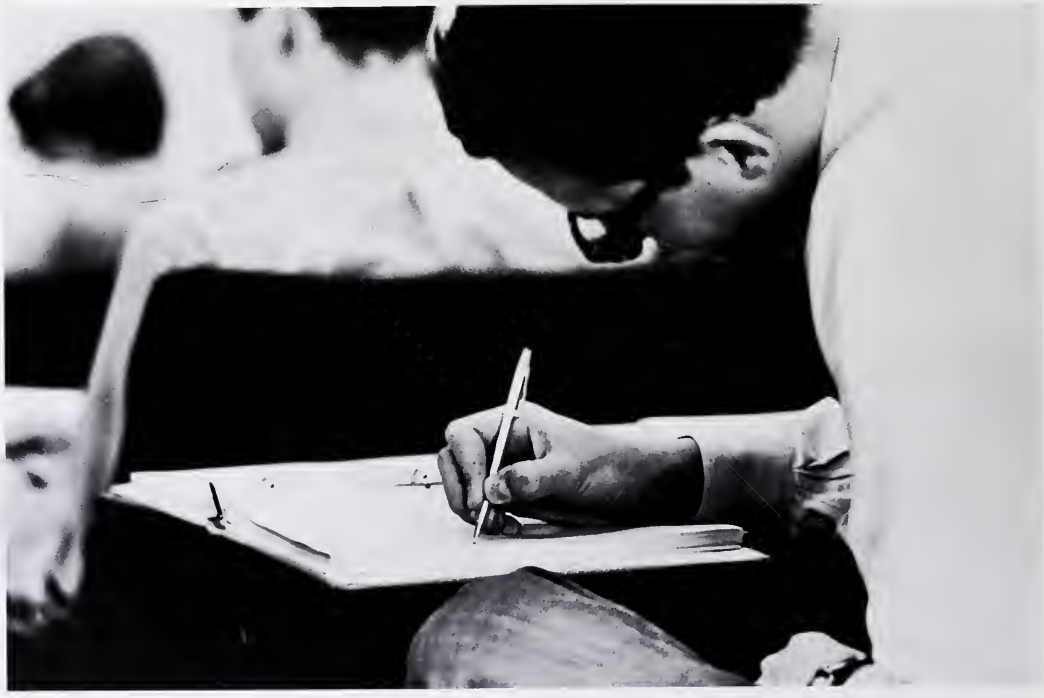
EXAMS STRIKE

You knew it was going to happen the minute you registered, the day you walked into the class. But when it arrived, you were still as unprepared as you were then, still denying the reality that final exams always deal with such a stunning blow.

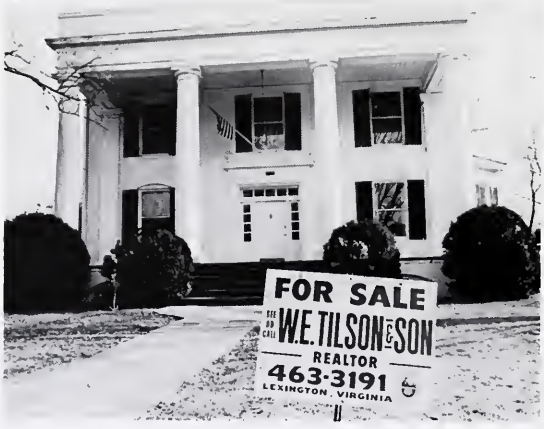
Exams at W&L mean bloodshot eyes, days of frustration, concentration, and an assortment of stay-awake pills. Comments range from the Dean's List student who sneers, "Of course I didn't have to cram; I've studied all semester" to the bitter retort "A PhD couldn't have passed that," to the spicy but unprintable remarks.

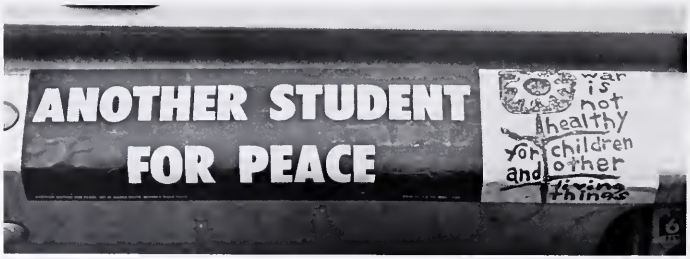
But every set of exams always ends with sworn promises to keep up in all courses during the next semester.

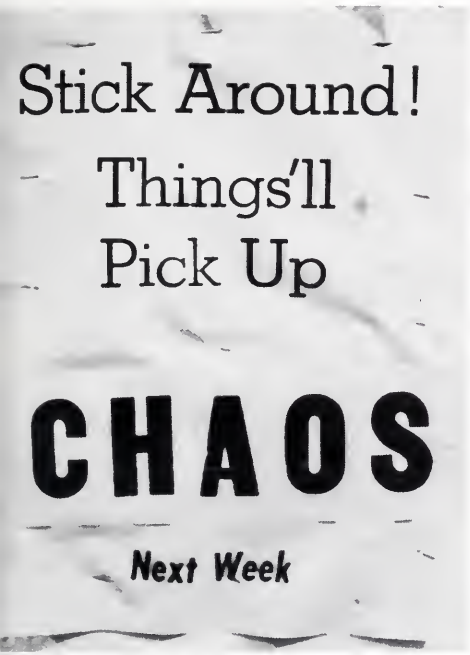
. . . . . Promises which—let's face it—few people keep.

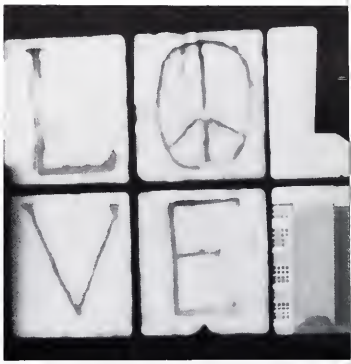


THE YEAR OF THE SIGN









It seems like almost everyone had a sign for the cause they were supporting (Or at least the cause they appeared to be supporting.) Of course, some of the signs were just for fun, though some had practical purposes. A few signs posed very fundamental questions. Others said nothing, rather nothing worth reading. Some people got so hung up on signs that they covered their walls with them. Others were content merely to observe the work of these clandestine artists and reacted with mixed emotions: delight, interest, indifference, or disgust. People wrote on signs, pasted things on them, defaced them, or put up more. After seeing a sign once, you remember its location, and feel no inclination to look there the next time you pass by. The surprising thing is that the next time you do look, another one has taken its place. All in all, the myriad of signs and placards, though they did not always display the most discreet tastes around, did seem to catch the eye.

The 1969 Washington and Lee football squad ended the season with a 4-5 record. The season was critical from the start: the defense started the season with only five experienced players and the offense had to rely solely on freshmen for running backs. Both offense and defense lacked depth.

In their home opener the developing General's met the Yellow Jackets of Randolph-Macon. The Jackets, piled up a three-touchdown margin in the first half. In the second half the General offense finally got rolling behind the signal calling of Jack Baizley, scoring twice. The General defense, however, was unable to contain Stevens and the Yellow Jackets went on to win 41-16.

Inexperience again hurt the Generals in their Homecoming contest with Centre. The offense seemed to lose the perfection they had displayed in their passing game and had to rely on the running of JoJo Martin and Doug Gossman. Centre, having excellent field position much of the time, cashed in on their opportunities twice, which proved to be the margin of defeat for the Generals, 14-7.

The Generals next traveled to Farmville to play the Hampden-Sydney Tigers, where they displayed the qualities of a mature team. In the second half, quarterback Chuck Kuhn completed 10 of 12 passes for 123 yards and three TD's two to Bruce Green, while the defense recovered two fumbles and intercepted four passes.

The next weekend the Generals, owning a 2-2 record, played the undefeated Jumbos of Tufts University. In the first half the Jumbos were allowed two touchdowns. During this time the Generals showed comparable strength on offense, but were halted several times inside the five yard line. The General's only score came when Dean and Drew Kumpuris nailed Jumbo's back John Dember in the end zone for a safety. The Generals started the second half with Kuhn and Baizley throwing TD passes to Bruce Green and Steve Mahaffey, respectively. The Generals were able to hold the lead only briefly, for the Jumbo's soon countered with another score. At the game's end the Generals, driving for the winning TD, ran out of time and were ultimately defeated, 20-15.

The Generals next journeyed to Bridgewater, where they emerged with a major 10-6 victory. Kuhn hit Bruce Green for a TD early in the game and soon after, Baizley added a thirty-five yard field goal. Yet after that the Generals cooled, and the Bridgewater Eagles came alive. Marshall Flora ran for the 168 yards against the General defense and scored once. At the end of the game, however, the defense aroused to stall several scoring threats, preserving the W & L victory.

In the next contest the Generals traveled to Sewanee, where the team was beaten by a combination of bad luck and poor play. The offense moved over five hundred yards but was able to score only three touchdowns. Meanwhile, Sewanee was handed the ball on three pass interceptions and four fumbles. The defense was unable to stop the Sewanee ground game and allowed Tiger runners to break away for several long TD runs. In the end it was Sewanee over W & L, 37-21, in a poorly played game for both teams.

Returning home the next weekend, the Generals recovered their poise and beat a tough Southwestern team, 24-19. The game featured both offensive and defensive scoring: Jack Baizley's forty-one yard field goal, Dave Brooks' TD run with an intercepted pass, and Green's pair of touchdown catches.

In the final game of the season the Generals traveled to St. Louis to play Washington University in Busch Stadium.The highlight of the game was Dave Brooks' 101 yard pass interception return. However, Brooks' score wasn't enough to make up for the sagging offense in the Generals final loss of the season, 20-12.

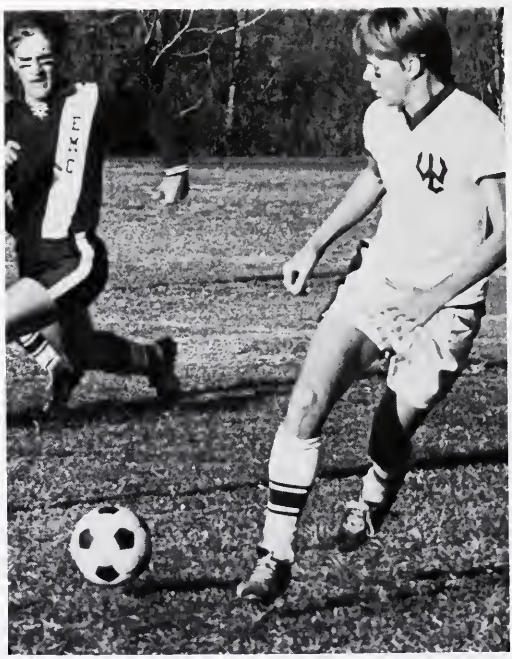
Several Generals received post season honors for their individual efforts. Quarterback Kuhn led the College Athletic Conference in total offense. Earning places on the All-conference team were Dean Kumpuris, Bruce Green, John Nolan, and Staman Ogilvie. Those named to the All-state team included Tom McJunkin, Dean Kumpuris, Kuhn, Ogilvie, Brooks, and Green. Also, Drew Kumpuris, John Nolan, and Lee Graham were awarded All-state honorable mention laurels.

SOCCER



What was to have been a rebuilding year for the Generals evolved into one of the finest seasons soccer has ever had at W&L. A nucleus of eight veterans returning from last year's squad were bolstered by a strong group of freshmen to compile an excellent 7-2-2 record. The strong defense was the key to their outstanding season; veteran fullbacks Doug Clarke, Brian Price and Mark Sayers continually intimidated opponents with their hustle and "hard-nose" play. Goalie Ken Newman also did a tremedous job, making 171 saves and allowing only eighteen goals the entire season. The sturdy defense was complemented by the young and fairly erratic offense. Sophomore forward Don Belt led the team's scoring punch with eleven goals, as Junior halfback Carl Hyatt and captain John Yow each netted five tallies during the season. Dave Manson and Meade Kampfmueller contributed many valuable assists to the offense's goal production. The strength of the team's record was enough to land the Generals a berth in the NCAA small college championships but were outclassed by the strong New England competition and lost to eventual champs Elizabethtown and to St. Lawrence University in the consolation match.

RUGBY

In the words of that immortal English Rugger, Shakespeare, the original longhair athlete, "Rugby is a game for holligans, played by gentlemen." This fall over thirty W&L "Gentlemen" took part in the rugby clashes. These Sunday Ruggers, who play the game for the sheer sport of it, continue to bring more big-time teams to the W&L campus than any other intercollegiate sport, as the fall line-up included University of Virginia, Duke, and George Washington. W&L also plans to spread its reputation by participating in the Whitemarsh and Duke seven-a-side tourneys and the Atlanta RFC All-Star Tournament.

Although the team does not yet enjoy the support it deserves, it does have an ever increasing hard-core bunch of fans. Happiness is rugby, and rugby is action, whether you are a player or a spectator.

CROSS COUNTRY

Although the 1969 cross-country team had a losing record, great individual talent was demonstrated and promise was shown for the future. Co-captains Dave Haydu and Paul Wilbur directed the team, which suffered primarily from a lack of depth. Two newcomers, junior Bill Wilkinson and freshman Bob Sherwood proved to be outstanding runners. Sherwood set a course record with a time of 26:25.5 in leading the harriers to a 35-24 victory at Lynchburg College in the first away meet of the season. The following week W&L fell to Centre by a 31-24 score despite good efforts by Sherwood, Haydu, and Wilkinson.

The heartbreaker of the season was a tri-meet with Roanoke College Old Dominion. The Generals beat Old Dominion by one point, yet fell to Roanoke by the same amount. Sherwood placed first for W&L with Wilkinson, Haydu, and Pete Wilson not far behind.

In the final dual meet against Eastern Mennonite College, the Generals fell by a 33-22 tally. At the C.A.C. meet in Memphis, W&L tied Southwestern for third place. Wilkinson placed seventh, while Sherwood, Haydu, Wilbur, and Glass did well.

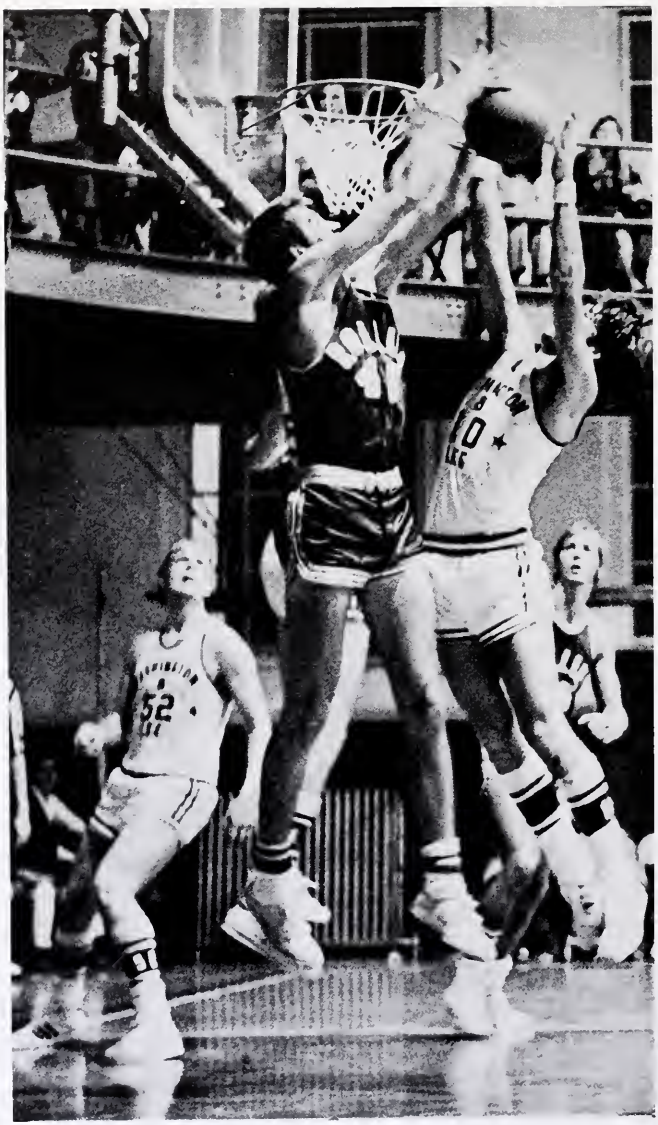
BASKETBALL

On Saturday night. Feb. 28, 1970, W.& L. was proclaimed CAC champions for their third time in four years. Thus was the trend for four years—a winning attitude with four winning ball players: Mel Cartwright, Mike Neer, Norwood Morrison and Stu Fauber, who helped to elevate W.&L. from the status of a pushover to one of a power house. Their records were 20-5 in 1967, 19-6 in 1968, 19-5 in 1969, and 17-8 in 1970, giving the seniors, and the Generals, a 75-24 overall record for four years.

Over this period, the statistics on both Cartwright and Neer are singularly impressive, but their ability to lead the team, is even more worthy of praise. Mel ended his career with 1800 points, shooting at a .500 pct. from the floor and grabbing 1075 rebounds; and Mike terminated his three-season career with 1293 points and over 1000 rebounds, shooting at a .52 pct. from the field. Captain Norwood Morrison's contribution cannot be measured by statistics—his fantastic ball control and dribbling ability made it impossible for opponents to effectively apply a press. When one looks for consistency, one looks to Stu Fauber, who, although lacking in height, made his appearance known by his aggressiveness under the boards and hustle all over the court.

Kneeling: M. Truta, J. Glace, M. Daniel, N. Morrison (capt.), S. Fauber, B. Brookby. Standing: L. Parkins, E. Gütshall, J. Stege, M. Neer, P. McClure, M. Cartwright, D. Stone, S. Miller, G. Macrae.



The fans have lived for basketball games, filling Doremus to capacity plus to watch the team play. Indicative of the crowd's love for the team was a 5 minute standing ovation for the seniors as they departed from the V.C.U. game as winners. And as winners they will forever remain.

Although the 1970 season was marred with more losses than in previous years, it also featured more surprises, as W.&L. faced its toughest schedule ever. This was balanced by the play of Mike Daniel, third leading scorer and rebounder behind Neer and Cartwright, both selections to the All-CAC team, and the bench. The "bench", led by Ellie Gutshall and featuring John Glace, Dave Stone and Paul McClure, not only led W.&L. to a romp over Centre in the CAC, but played like wild-men throughout the season. They will be back to begin a new era next year; an era without Magic Mel, Mike, Stu and Norwood. To these graduating seniors, we give our praise and our thanks for four great years of basketball.

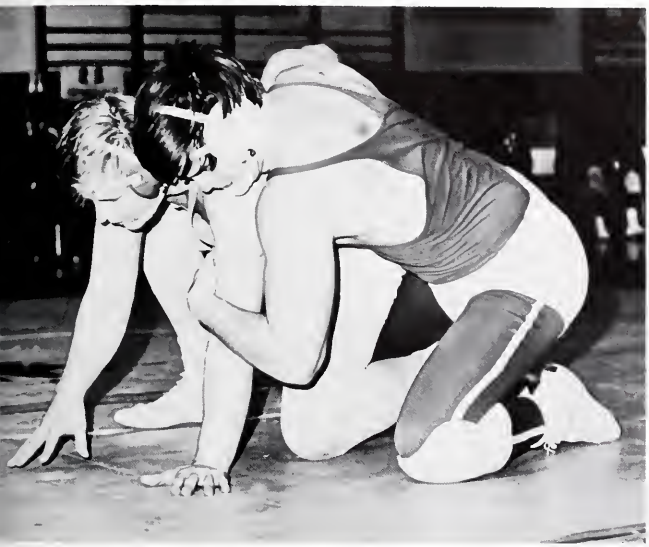
WRESTLING



Plagued by an extreme lack of depth, the 1969-70 wrestling team was able to gain only one victory during their season. The win came over Loyola of Baltimore by a score of 26-18. For over the major part of the season, the wrestling team was forced to forfeit up to two matches, and in view of this, its impressive showings at Hampden-Sydney, E. Mennonite, and its near victory over UNC are even more worthy of praise.

Perhaps the greatest setback to the team occurred when tri-captain Danny Webster transferred before semester exams, thus vacating the 177 lb. class for the remainder of the season. The two remaining captains, Dave Higgins and Razz Rasberry, combined to lead the Generals through difficult matches, and several impressive performances were turned in to end their careers. Veterns Bill West, Dee Copenhaver, Bruce Hankins and Jim Hooker, with rookies Pat Buford, Wade Gowl and Sid Roseberry turned in fine efforts although they were grossly outmatched.

Standing: B. Knight, S. Houston, D. Copenhaver, J. Hooker, S. Roseberry, D. Higgins, co-capt, Coach Miller, B. West. (Coach). Kneeling: B. Hankins, Bill West, W. Gowl, R. Rasberry, co-capt., P. Buford.

The W.&L. swimmers, under the leadership of Coach Bill Stearns and co-captains Roger Martin and Scott McElroy, have continued the team's winning tradition. . . . the longest of any W.&L. sports.

Off to a poor start, W&L lost to a strong American U. team, then, rebounding, we defeated Dickinson College and Catholic U. in a grudge match which was not decided until the last event. W.&L. then met its second and last defeat of the year at the hands of U. Va.

The swimmers defeated O.D.U., Loyola and W. Va. Wesleyan to finish with a 5-2 record in individual meets. Travelling to W.&M. for the Va. State Intercollegiate Swimming Championships, we lost only to W.&M. while capturing a second place. Bill Brumback scored our only first in this meet by winning the 50 yard freestyle.

The W&L swimmers came forth with a great team effort to take the '70 CAC's by the score of 205-109 over Sewanne. Placing as many as 4 in an event, the team received outstanding performances from Brumback, Clark, Lawlor and Corwith.

The varsity thinclads of W.&L. experienced moments of both glory and defeat in their 1969 campaign. Accentuated by spectacular individual performances, however, their season was an overall success. Highjumpers Mike Neer and John Glace, javelin thrower Mike Carrere, pole vaulters Chip Billups and Robbie Faust, and long jumper Bill Kahn led the Generals to their very formidable showing in the field events. Neer, whose first place finishes set records in the Virginia State and Colonial Relays, also scored firsts in the CAC and the NCAA Eastern College Division Regionals.

Co-captain Sam Hinkle and Drew Thomas, 1970's captain, paced the runners in the sprints and the hurdles respectively, while Bob Jensen in the halfmile and hurdler Don Marshall added welcomed depth to the trackmen.

This year's squad will be expecting fine showings from a host of promising freshmen. Distance runner Bob Sherwood proved his value to the 1970 Cross Country team by leading all General distance men. And Quater-milers Lawrence Keesee and Scott Wellford should fill the gaps created by the graduating seniors.

Faced with enormous tasks of rebuilding, playing a tough schedule, and overcoming a problem of inherent lack of speed, the Generals had nothing but rough sailing throughout their 1969 season.

After playing Bucknell, Loyola and U.N.C. to standstills in the opening periods, flurries of explosive scoring pulled the ground out from under the stickmen, and they were forced to realize that victory would be hard to come by. This realization was verified, as W.&L. received their only win at the expense of W. Md. by a score of 15-1.

After losing to Baltimore U. and nationally ranked Washington College, W.&L. tried desperately to overcome their losing attitude. But this effort was in vain, as they were defeated by Towson St. and Duke after taking leads into the final minutes of play.

There were, however, many bright spots in the 1969 schedule which afford promise for the upcoming season. The play of freshman Scott Neese, team leader with 12 goals and 9 assists, goalie Bill Ingersoll, who averaged 20 saves for the last 5 games, and Whit Morril, who captured the McHenry Ground Ball Trophy and was selected to the second midfield, all-conference team, highlighted this season of frustration.

As the host school to the last North-South game in the history of lacrosse, W.&L. will be playing to impress lacrosse fans throughout the mid-Atlantic states. With the addition of freshman Sam Englehart at attack, and the return of Jay Merriwether, John Thomas, Bill Brumback, and honorable-mention All-American Ned Coslette, W.&L. should be insured of a winning season.

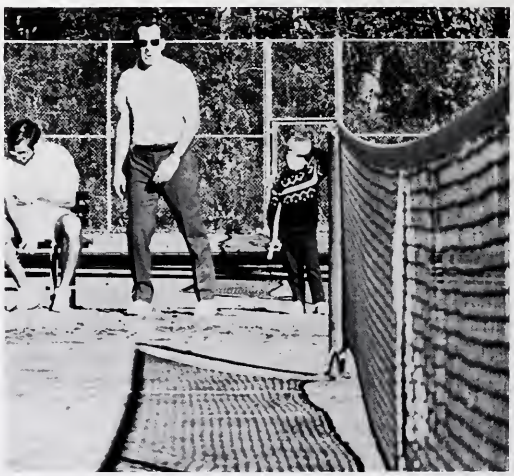
TENNIS



For the third Consecutive year, the W.&L. Tennis team captured the CAC tennis crown.

In the season itself, W.&L. won 8 matches and suffered 5 defeats, three of which were to Virginia, Duke and Maryland, all ACC contenders. The individual matches against Va. and Duke were quite close, many going into three sets. The losses to W&M and ODU were very disappointing, as in each case, a single set determined the outcome.

Captain Tommy Reuger ended a brillant career at W.&L. as he played #1 singles for the fourth straight year and won the singles title as well as the first doubles crown with Bill Gatlin at the CAC tournament. Gatlin and Rick Armstrong were individual winnerss in the CAC's and Tom McJunkin and Dan McClure were victorious at #3 doubles.

GOLF

The W.&L. Golf team continued its winning ways throughout the 1969 season as it ended with a 6-3 record, a third place finish in the CAC's, and a fourth place finish in the state tournament. Led by captain Bob Mathews, 1970's captain, Dick Singletary and Ken Carter, the year's outstanding golfer, the Generals fell only to Roanoke and William & Mary by two holes, and to Old Dominion by one. Their list of victories included matches against the same Roanoke team, Richmond, Hampden–Sydney, and Lynchburg.

Despite the fact that the Generals will be faced with the tasks of replacing senior members Gary Silverfield, Bill McLeod, and Mathews, and travelling to Hot Springs, Va., to play home matches during 1970, Coach Cy Twombly is confident that his team will again complete a successful season.

BASEBALL

The 1969 W.&L. Baseball team celebrated their first winning season in recent years, winding up with an overall 11-9 record. This seems even more impressive when one considers the injuries received by pitcher Thom Mitchell, 3rd baseman Steve Kalista and outfielder Jim Wilson, diminishing their efficiency and forcing Coach Joe Lyles to find replacements. Fortunately, these substitutes, including freshman Bo Brookby, along with regulars Gill Fitzhugh, 1970's Captains Scott McChrystal and John Noland, Jack Baizley and Ray Coates proved more than adequate to the task and provided the winning attitude that was to carry the Generals throughout their schedule, culminating in a 3rd place finish in the CAC. In the batting department, McChrystal led the team in HR's and RBI's, while Fitzhugh hit for a .348 average. Baizley performed his customary superior job behind the plate, and Fitzhugh pitched to a 5-3 record with an ERA of under 2.00.

The Generals completed their season with a 7-5 victory in the snow at the CAC tournement, and they thus insured W.&L. of an overall CAC victory with the added reward of the CAC bell as a trophy.

FRATERNITIES

Fraternities are logical and natural institutions which have grown up to meet a very natural and human need in every young man, the need of comrades, of fellowship. The idea of fraternal association is as old as the race. We find examples in all tribal councils of wandering peoples, in the Lyceum of Athens, and in the pupils who gathered about Socrates and Plato for the benefit of mutual knowledge and association. Everywhere we find groups of men bound together in their search for certain elemental truths and ideals, gleaning from one another inspiration and knowledge.

The great essential aims of fraternities are to achieve scholarship, to promote a consideration and a love for the beautiful, and to cultivate the highest type of fellowship and brotherly love. Fraternities strive to inculcate faith in God,in goodness, as the goal of man's destiny. They aim to guide and direct the college man into the most fruitful paths of endeavor, and to try to help him to develop into the finest, most intelligent, most cultured and tolerant of gentlemen. No fraternity attempts to remake a man's nature to conform to its own standards, but it tries to select in each man those traits which are best, and to cultivate these, and gradually to eradicate undesirable traits. Through living together in constant association, with his brothers, a fraternity man hopes to become more tolerant and broad-minded, to realize that he has an interest in his brother, and his brother in him, and to learn the beauties of fraternal association.

Nevada outharries the Pine—Black Panther Blake runs from the cops in D.C.—DFBW cries and the tears run down the back of his head. Jay Feld lives.

PHI KAPPA PSI—This was the year of the clink for many Phi Psis. Ski checked out B. V.'s accommodations after the Sem panty raid, Gunner resided in Harrisonburg and the Iron City, and Hank put the Duncan Hines Stamp of Approval on the facilities in Charlottesville.

Once we got everyone out of the local jails, the ribald existence of the Psis moved into full swing. T. lost his heart and his lavalier at Sem . . . Fins saw a lot of Andi . . . Big R started the move to Roanoke . . . Spud played Dial-a-matic for his dates . . . But Turtle did not get any . . . Ned and Roscoe tied the knot . . . Spyke found a Semmie . . . Stearns found that Sue wasn't as great as she was supposed to be, but Chatham really dug her . . . Fuzzy got a permanent room at the R. E. Lee, figuring it was safer than his car . . . Little R set a record with four A-A's in one night, but finally found someone to go out with him more than once . . . Fran came back . . . Hartley became free . . . Peder found out that American girls just weren't like the ones in Sweden . . . Woodenhead discovered that there are better things to do than date . . . Lou got stuck with the Memphis Motormouth . . . Jamie found Ronnie, then Bunnie, then neither . . . Little Richie became a Big Honcho . . . Bill's in love . . . Knipper's back at Sem, again with Thal . . . Big Wheat continued to be engaged and date nine girls . . . Piggy dumped on two a weekend . . . C-Man's still with Mary, but AJ's on the loose . . . March 14, Howie!

We didn't spend much time on the Hill pursuing knowledge, but then, what's college for?

PIKA—Demonstrating unexcelled social grace and an innate flair for the raunchy, Pi Chapter has endured another exciting year under the divine rule of guidance gourmet-guru Mike. Led by rogue "Missouri Dick" Dunlap, the brotherhood branched into several forms of social endeavour. House functions were enhanced by the presence of the hard rolling Fornico klan— (Cosmo, Hondo, Incognito, Crisco, Rojo, Harlando, Junior and world renowned, legendary Mondo, who most recently escaped from the burning fuselage of his wrecked Lear jet to vent his lust on the world.) "Che Guevara" Holt, his miniature road wench Guitar Zanne, and their Profligate Munstaro followers Genghis, Fu, Jackwright, Wiley Weasel, P. T. and Schools added greatly to the Bachanalian Delight. Close behind was Pi's agrarian branch— the farmers—Magi, the "Berry," Wiggle, Ethel, T-Rob and "Bob Petey. The house dreamboy, Marlund Munchkin, an exchange student from OZ, under the guidance of Chemist Collins, exerted his influence to keep Phi-Delt fighters Casette and Drews alive, Cleft, with his avant garde Edwardian suit, Dog, Demo, George, "Broadway" Bo, Slab, Wretch, Jose Phillips (who really ate orange mold) and John Blalock—a calm rock in a confuded sea, rounded out the society of inveterate cads.

Momentous highlights of the brotherhood included Anderson's inability to stay, and C-Man's inability to get out of bed, Rah-Rah and Belt gave their souls to Coach Joe; and above all, Hawley's fruit boots finally rotted off.

PHI GAMMA DELTA—This was the year of . . . lots of freshmen pledges, 25 in all . . . Higgins at the controls of the Fiji lodge and the W & L wrestling team (?) . . . Thunder "A. J." D.U.—Another year at the Country Club. Lawrence can rush extremely well, in spite of being miserable, and we get thirteen pledges. Susann caught The Pond. Motsinger is caught under the bed as Aunt Sadie tells all. Williams goes into the motorcycle business, making Phillips and Taco his first customers. Never having been one to let a good one slip by, Hinshaw finds a deodorant that really works. Lockhart charms Rosalee with a loaf of bread, a jug of wine, and Chaucer. Phaup is perplexed on the weekend, trying to remember which date comes which night. With Nelson we get The Jeep and all of its possibilities. Bo and Graham become 4.0 men after first semester. Birbari, Delaware, Lumpy, The Beaver, Crumpton, and Houck make a hit in the pledge skit. It was a good year, especially for the one that began with "Can I ask you a personal question?"

KAPPA SIGMA—After four years of arduous service marked by unsurpassed courage and fortitude, the Brothers of Mu Chapter have been compelled to yield to overwhelming numbers and resources.

I need not tell the brave survivors of so much hard-fought rush and strenuous weekends, who have remained steadfast to the last, that I have consented to this result from no distrust of them.

But feeling that valour and devotion could accomplish nothing that would compensate for the loss that must have attended the continuance of the folly, I determined to avoid the useless sacrifice of those whose just services have endeared them to their brothers.

By the terms of the agreement, officers and brothers can return to their apartments and remain until graduated. You will have with you the satisfaction that proceeds from the consciousness of duty faithfully performed, and I earnestly pray that a merciful God will extend to you his blessing and protection.

With an unceasing admiration of your constancy and devotion to your brothers, and a grateful remembrance of your kindness and generous consideration for myself, I bid you all an affectionate farewell.

R. Lee E.
Chief, Quartermaster Corps.

PI KAPPA PHI—Rho's 50th year proved to be one of the best ever. Mac Squires, our combination president, rush chairman, and charter member of the V.C. rounded up 23 pledges, who managed to up some top positions both on campus and on the house list of super heroes.

On campus, freshmen Don McMilland and Dorsey Ward are in the Brass Choir, accompanied by the contrapuntal gobblings of the Turk. The WLUR-FM team consisted of such notables as messers Kessling, Wade, Ward, and Hinely, while peace loving Sean Reilly and Kurt Krumperman manned the contingent in the Federation of Christian Concern. Off canpus and on stage, J. C. Carrere, A. F. W. Wyndham, and Ganghis Vich kept alive our natural ability for playing the role.

Back at the lodge, the V.C. Vied with the legion of Super Heroes to see which group would take the house. Openings found V.C. member Clark a double loser, while Dorsey Ward put the super heroes into an early lead. But it was not an easy fight. Hero Shepperd complained of visions of rabbits, and Hobbes withdrew altogether. The Christmas party proved to be The Battle. It was a close fight until the weasel man sprung a leak, proving once and for all that anyone can be a super hero. Even a Pi Kapp.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

This year's student body Executive Committee was confronted directly with the many transitional problems posed by the university's adoption of a new calendar and curriculum. Interest in areas outside the university proper was expressed in a fall resolution directing student attention to the October 15 Vietnam Moratorium.

More immediately concerned with the university itself were such steps as setting up a committee to study the possibility of enlarged student participation in admissions and the designation of three E.C. members to work closely with the administration in the general area of planning and development.

Swede Henberg, President of the Student Body.

Joe Tompkins, Vice President of the Student Body.

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE: Alan Prater, John Markham, Glenn Azuma, Dave Bethea, Chuck Dobbins, Swede Henberg, Joe Tompkins, Staman Ogilvie, Dean Kumpuris, Bill Andrews, Phil Thompson, Kevin Baker.

Anthony Gleason; Charles C. Lewis. Third Row: David L. Baird, Jr.; Scott G. Patterson; Hugh B. Lynn, II; Joseph H. Webb, Jr. Fourth Row: Philip C. Thompson; Mosby G. Perrow, III; Beverly C. Reed; Thomas F. Baker, IV.

LAW REVIEW EDITORS—Seated: James J. Winn, Jr.; Richard P. Lasko, editor-in-chief; William A. Vaughn, editor-in-chief. Standing: William F. Stone, Jr.; James K. Cluverius; Whitney D. Thornton, II; Leighton D. Houck.

The Washington and Lee Law Review is a legal periodical managed and published by the students under the auspices of the School of Law to provide a medium for scholarly discussion of important legal problems. Operations are under the general supervision of a faculty advisor. Student editors and members are chosen on the basis of scholarship and aptitude for legal research and writing.

NATIONAL MOOT COURT COMPETITION

Each year the School of Law is represented by its students in the National Moot Court Competition. The 1969-70 Moot Court Team won the regional competition in Norfolk, Virginia and advanced to the second round of the National Finals in New York City.

MOOT COURT TEAM—Charles C. Lewis; H. William Walker; Robin P. Hartmann; Beverly C. Read, captain.

STUDENT BAR ASSOCIATION

STUDENT BAR ASSOCIATION (1st semester)—Jerrald J. Roehl, treasurer; Mosby G. Perrow, III, president; Beverly C. Read, vice president; Frank G. Selbe, III, secretary.

All law students are eligible for membership in the Student Bar Association which is affiliated with the American Law Student Association of the American Bar Association. The Association serves as liaison between students and faculty on all matters relating to activities and operations of the School of Law. Among its many specific activities are publication of the Washington and Lee Lawyer twice each year; sponsorship of a visiting lecturer program which brings distinguished members of the bench and bar to the campus; presentation of the two mock trials each year; and sponsorship of the Burks Moot Court Competition.

STUDENT BAR ASSOCIATION (2nd semester)—Benjamin A. Williams, treasurer; J. Thomas Province, secretary; Frank G. Selbe, III, vice president; Beverly C. Read, president.

Second and third year students belong to the Legal Research Association. They research problems submitted by practicing lawyers which have arisen in advising their clients or in litigating their client's causes.

LEGAL RESEARCH ASSOCIATION

LEGAL RESEARCH ASSOCIATION—Seated: Richard Defronzo; John Zink, Chairman; Benjamin Cummings. Standing: Mosby Perrow, James Dawson, Robert Vinyard, Anthony Gleason, Benjamin Williams, Walter Jacob, Walton Jeffress.

THE LIBRARY COMMITTEE

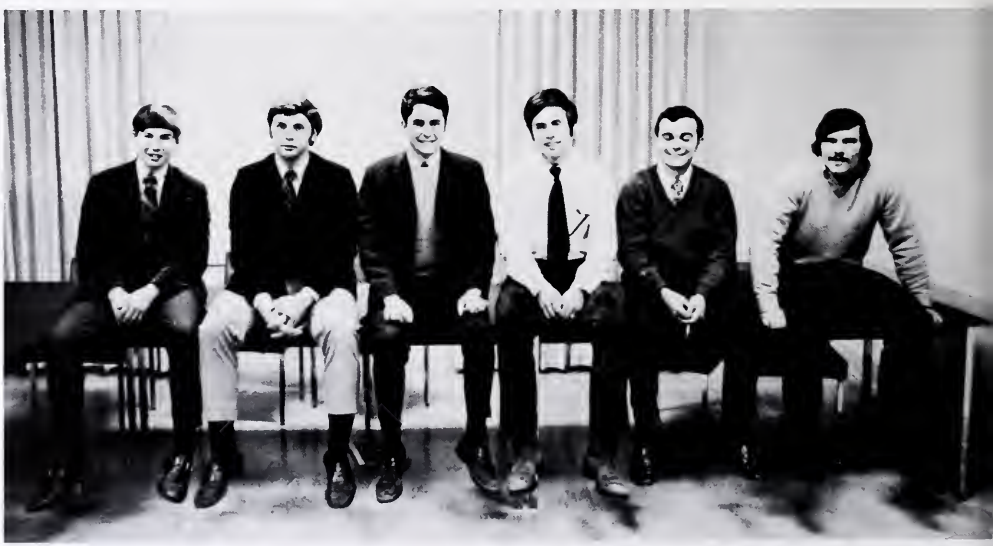
The Library Committee basically functions as an advisory body to the librarian, Maurice Leach, providing a voice for the students' viewpoint as to the needs of McCormick Library. Recent innovations with which the Committee has been involved include the opening of the library until 3 a.m. during exam periods. The Committee is also involved with considering the feasibility of opening the library 24 hours if the library's resources are ever available for such a move.

The major concern of the Committee this year has been the planning of the new library structure to be built in the near future. The Committee has met frequently with Mr. Leach to discuss various alternatives for the Washington and Lee library system of the future.

Richard Kampf; Chip Harris; Phil Hubbard; John Tucker'; Reeve Kelsey, Chm.; Mr. Maurice Leach; Mack Woodward; Stacy Eastland; Jimmy Davis.

STUDENT CONTROL COMMITTEE

In the tradition of student government, the Student Control Committee handles matters pertaining to student discipline on the campus, in the city of Lexington, and at the neighboring girls' schools. The Committee, composed of nine students, carefully screened and selected by the Executive Committee, has as its aim the maintenance of Washington and Lee's reputation as a school of gentlemen. The Committee's assumption of disciplinary duties has relieved the faculty and administration of the task, and greatly contributed to the respect for student government at Washington and Lee.



Rick Gray, Tim Strait, John Bernard, Chm., Drew Kumpuris, Homer Gamble, Phil Honig.

COLD CHECK COMMITTEE

The purpose of the Cold Check Committee is to maintain good financial relations between the student body and area merchants by ruling on infractions involving bad checks and overdue accounts. These cases are considered at the weekly meetings of the committee, and offenders are fined or otherwise disciplined according to the severity of their infractions.

CURRICULUM COMMITTEE

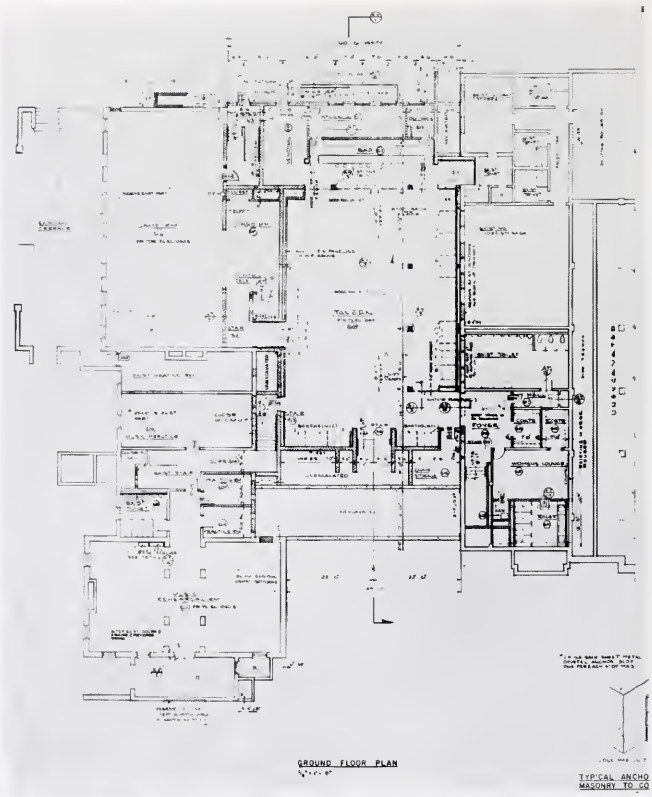
The Curriculum Committee has been involved in three major areas this year. In the fall, the committee took up the problem of making the freshman faculty advisory system more effective, and produced a plan by which the new student would be able to select the department from which his advisor would come, to have more contact with that advisor, and to have an opportunity at specific times to talk with majors in the department for a student's point of view.

The next issue tackled by the committee involved the extension of the pass/fail option both into the sophomore year, and to make it available for more than one course per semester on top of a minimal requirement.

Finally, on the basis of a student referendum, the committee formulated arrangements for an independent exam schedule, which would go into effect with the adoption of the new calendar next year.

John McCardell, Roger Young, Marty Bass, Don Belt, Jim Dickinson, Chip Schooley, Chm., George Wolfe, Jay Wilkins, Dave Collins, Steve Clement, Steve Haughney.

STUDENT CENTER COMMITTEE



Because of the current state of change on campus, the Assimilation Committee abandoned its traditional function as the enforcer of W. and L. traditions in favor of coordination of activities in the new University Center. Orientation roles were implemented through cabin visitation at Freshman Camp, while faculty-student coffees were sponsored to acquaint underclassmen with the various majors offered by the university.

The committee directed constant efforts at enhancing the nature and use of the Cockpit and Center itself by advising the tavern's manager, James Toler, by aiding Director Ken Lane in making fullest use of the physical facilities, by acquiring books, magazines, and art displays for the library, and by sponsoring entertainment of all kinds in the tavern. In addition to these activities, the committee has spent much time dealing with organizational problems and defining the direction in which to develop the potential of this new facility.

DORMITORY COUNSELORS

Nolan, Kympton, Thornton, Gamble, and Crigler.

Enforcing the new parietals has been the main duty of Washington and Lee's twenty eight dormitory counselors this year. Freshmen and upperclassmen alike received liberal allowances concerning liquor and female visitors during the past year, and under the supervision of the counselors, the new policies were implemented with a minimum of difficulty.

Dorm counselors were instrumental in drawing up the social plans that were written to govern each residential unit. Visitation hours were set and codes of conduct were established. The usual duties of being a counselor continued, moreover.

Michael Thornton served as head dormitory counselor, assisted by David Kympton, Homer Gamble, John Nolan, and Waugh Crigler, the assistant head counselors.

The IFC began 1969 amid a storm of controversy. When the IFC sought to extend its responsibilities and authority, it met at loggerheads with the faculty Student Affairs Committee. The nexus of the conflict was the recent extension of parietal rules, allowing girls above the first floor of fraternity houses. The IFC contended that it did not desire to be a puppet of the Student Affairs Committee, and further believed that a responsible and self-governing fraternity system should become a campus reality. The IFC emerged from this experience with a more clearly defined notion of its authority and a desire to exercise responsible leadership.

Anxious to fulfill its responsibilities, the IFC flexed its muscles. It petitioned the faculty to grant it sovereign rule in making regulations for the Fraternities, and also to grant it sovereign rule in making regulations for the Fraternities, and also to allow it a non-voting seat in faculty meetings. An amendment was passed providing for the election of the President and Vice-President by all fraternity members. The Judicial Board tightened its enforcement of the fraternity social code to improve the community image of the Houses.

CONTACT is the annual symposium series sponsored by the IFC, which is paid for by students; parents; and the IFC. Since its inception in 1965. CONTACT has brought to campus an impressive group of nationally prominent eeconomists, political figures, journalists, and educators.

This year, CONTACT's speakers were augmented by Co-ed Week. 120 young ladies from Hollins, Mary Baldwin, Randolph-Macon, and Sweet Briar spent a week at W&L; they attended classes, seminars, as well as the symposijms, ate with W&L students, while staying in hostesses' homes in Lexington for a brief experiment in coeducation.

The feature speakers of CONTACT included former Attorney General Ramsey Clark, NBC News Correspondent Robert Goralski, Esquire Editor Harold Hayes, and William Rusher, publisher of National Review. Each discussed some aspect of communcations.

The Washington and Lee Young Republicans started 1969 by winning the National College Young Republican Award for best club in the nation. The club this year has shown why it deserves that award. In addition to playing a decisive role in the victorious gubernatorial campaign of alumnus Linwood Holton in the Lexington-Rockbridge area, the club was also active in many campus events. The Blood Drive, the Total Action against Poverty program, and several speakers were all Y.R. sponsored.

In March, the Washington and Lee Y.R.s planned and hosted the convention of Virginia Young Republicans, held at Natural Bridge.

UNIVERSITY FEDERATION OF CONCERN

Out of the many individual college religious organizations was formed, in 1967, a united, interdenominational, and interfaith group, the University Federation of Concern.

Projects undertaken by the U.F.C. in 1969-70 included numerous forums on controversial issues with neighboring girls' schools; a Christmas Party for underprivileged children, weekly counseling trips to Western State Hospital, assisting in transportation for the teachers' aides, the annual Christmas candlelight service, and a highly successful symposium.

Jeff Spence, Bob Foley, Chip Harris, Chairman, Ed Bracken, John McCardell, Dean Sprunt, James Gilliam, Father Gallagher, Kurt Krumperman, Dee Copenhaver, Bill Radigan, Cal Seaton.

Standing: Bob Baroody, Editor, Ariel; Matt Cole, Editor Calyx; Mr. Paxton Davis, Faculty Advisor; Mr. Sam Rader, Treasurer; Mr. Matt Paxton, Alumnus Advisor.

The Publications Board is a regulatory agent for W&L's student publications; composed of past and present editors and business managers of The Ring Tum-Phi, Calyx, and Ariel, and a faculty representative. The Board fixes budgets, elects editors, and business managers, and arbitrates policy or editorial disputes.

This year the Board took outstanding steps to improve the quality of the publications and the men who control them. The newspaper was reduced from two issues a week to one, ending twenty years of Tuesday-Friday competition and placing future editors in a position of greater responsibility and effectiveness. Guidelines for selecting editors were incorporated into a general policy statement, and steps were initiated to end the newspaper staff's chronic shortage of space.

Officers of the Publications Board: Bob Yevich, Secretary; Larry Honig, President Thomas Clyde, Vice-President.

Somewhat like the Paris Peace Conference the two Editors found that they disagreed not on the size of the table, but on the size of the pictures. Unlike the Paris Peace Conference, we found we could agree on most major issues, though not without some hours of heated debate. The differences in all cases were resolved by the two Editors, with the help of an amazing staff who were able to maintain their neutrality in their words and actions, if not in their thoughts.

The Tuesday Ring-tum Phi is now history, but its name will surely be remembered with those other Titans of journalism—the Tombstone Epitaph; the Rutherian Gazette, and the Yellow Press.

This year's Tuesday Ring-tum Phi was true to the proud heritage of its forbears—ever the defender of the faith—even if such loyalty required carefully-biased headlines.

Stylistically, the Tuesday Edition remained, to the end in tune to the most modern trends. The handsome quality of the paper was dominated by the clean new masthead, while the removal of column rules added to the uncluttered appearance. The use of small-size type and no capital letters in headlines complicated the cleanliness of the masthead and the judicious distribution of white space.

The smallness of the Tuesday staff was overly compensated by its deadly efficiency. In November, the paper set a new first at W&L by coming off the press before noon. The staff also took great pride in consistently appearing with less proofreading mistakes than its latter-week counterpart, and in being caught only twice for its frequent, clever use of new cutlines on five-year old pictures.

RING-TUM PHI WEEKLY PROPOSITION

LEXINGTON, Va.—Effective March 1, the twice-weekly student newspaper of Washington and Lee University will become a weekly publication, the paper announced this week.

Consolidation of the Tuesday and Friday editions of the Ringtum Phi and other major changes in the newspaper's policies were approved by the University's Publications Board. The paper will be published on Thursday.

The changes came after a month of intensive self-study of the newspaper by a four-man Publications Board subcommittee composed of the two current editors, seniors Bob Entzminger of Belle, W. Va. and Bob Yevich of Richmond, Va.; Journalism Prof. Paxton Davis, faculty representative; and senior Reed Byrum of Wheeling, W. Va., business manager of the Calyx, the student yearbook.

Under the plan, the Ring-tum Phi will be published during the spring semester by a combined staff; beginning with the first Thursday in March, under the joint editorship of Entzminger and Yevich. Effective with the 1970-71 academic year, the Publications Board will elect one editor-in-chief for the newspaper.

The weekly edition will normally be published in a format of six pages, with a reduction, if necessary, to four pages during the six-week "short term" of independent study for W & L students which will begin in the spring of 1971 under a new curriculum adopted by the faculty.

In addition, the Publications Board adopted a resolution providing for a more systematic and dependable method of circulating the newspaper, as well as a corresponding increase in the press run. Increased numbers of copies of the paper will be distributed to the university dining hall, the 18 social fraternities, and the School of Law. It was also decided to purchase distribution racks, similar to those used by commercial newspapers, to be placed in the University Supply Store, McCormick Library, and the University Center.

Also adopted by the board were guidelines on qualifications for election to the student editorship, staff organization, and editorial responsibility.

The Tuesday Ring-tum Phi

The Ring-tum Phi is published Tuesdays and Fridays during the college year. It is printed by the Journalism Laboratory Press, Washington and Lee University. The mailing address is Box 899, Lexington, Virginia 24450. Entered as second class matter September 29, 1946, at the Post Office, Lexington, Virginia 24450, under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription rates: $6.00 for the school year, $3.00 for the semester.

The Friday Ring-tum Phi began the year pledging itself only to reportorial integrity and to the service of the University. This broad goal led it in October to break a longstanding Ring-tum Phi tradition.

In the past the newspaper has restricted itself to reporting only on-campus or local events, leaving the coverage of national news to the daily newspapers. However, the October 15 Vietnam War Moratorium, and the close involvement of many W&L students in the local non--partisan discussion of the war, led the Friday Ring-tum Phi to include Moratorium reports from other campuses and to comment on them editorially.

In University affairs, the Friday Ring-tum Phi has focused most consistently on what it has viewed as weaknesses in the admissions/recruiting program and the Interfraternity Council. It has been gratified by recent initiative taken in those areas.

Although advertising has limited space for sports coverage as it always does, the Friday sports staff has striven, not wholly in vain, to provide coverage as complete as possible on all aspects of athletics at W&L, and sports editor Tom Gage writes a regular column to comment on sports happenings outside the W&L community. If the paper has not gone all the way in covering sports fully, it feels it has at least made a definite improvement over past year.

If the newspaper from the inside seemed haphazard, thankfully the finished product did not always reveal the extent of the chaos. For that result, the print shop workers are to be given primary credit.

This year the Friday staff joined for the first time the Tuesday edition in systematically evaluating present operations and predicting the future of the editions. The result, along with some technical improvements, was a Publications Board vote to merge the two editions into a weekly six-page paper.

A merger indeed will probably make the Ring-tum Phi a more business-like, efficient venture, and in that sense it is probably for the best. But the passing of Friday afternoon panics, skipped meals, lost sleep, and (probably) lower grades should not also mean the loss of a sense of involvement and contribution each staff member presently claims.

The Friday Ring-tum Phi, 1969-70, will probably be the last of its kind. Its staff, however, hopes its successor will find valid the goals it upheld and the standards to which it aspired. That is, finally, all they can ask.

ARIEL

Ariel, published three times a year, gives Washington and Lee students the opportunity for creative self-expression through original writing in both prose and poetry. Conceived nine years ago, Ariel now receives financial assistance from the University and is represented on the Publications Board.

The literary magazine actively solicits original manuscripts from any students. In addition, Ariel welcomes graphic art work, pen and ink drawings, and unusual photography.

The fall issue is published after Thanksgiving, and a winter issue appears in February. The spring issue contains the winning entries in the Mahan Award competition conducted each year by the English Department.

Editor of Ariel for 1969-70 is Robert Baroody, '71.

Assistant Managers Rich Murray, Kenn George, and Al Marian; Professor R. H. MacDonald, and Station Manager Phil Hubbard.

As a campus radio station, the primary purpose of WLUR is to provide a laboratory facility for W&L students who are pursuing course study or just interested in broadcast communications. It is utilized extensively for this purpose, as more than 70 students hold positions on the station's operating staff. Some are newsmen, some are engineers, some are DJ's, some produce music and talk shows, some perform managerial tasks, and all are receiving valuable experience and training in radio broadcasting.

WLUR is an integral part of W&L campus life in other ways. The station airs many programs which concern and are relevant to students and faculty. For the first time, complete live coverage of CONTACT was provided by WLUR this year. The station broadcasts many of the Generals' football and basketball games each season. Also, more than half of WLUR's total musical offering is designed to appeal to students.

DEBATE TEAM

Cal Seaton, Tim Wright, Marc Small, Robert Munt, Charles Smith.

Mills Bradshaw, Lawrence Evans, Mark Grobmyer, Robert Bruyere, Kevin Baker, Ken Murov, Roy Deemer.

The Washington and Lee Debate team enjoyed another highly successful season, participating in tournaments the length and breadth of the country, at such schools as Dartmouth, Emory, Wake Forest, N. Y. U., and the Naval Academy.

Several highlights marked Coach William Chaffin's debaters' year. Junior Tim Wright was elected President of the regional Delta Sigma Rho-Tau Kappa Alpha debate society; he and Juniors Kevin Baker and Bill Radigan, Senior Charles Smith, Sophomores Kenny Murov and John Reynolds, and Freshmen Bob Bruyere and Andy Bradshaw went to numerous tournaments.

Seated: Dorsey Ward, Marc Lipman, Don McMillan, Michael Jenkins.

BRASS CHOIR

The John A. Graham Brass Choir is a brass ensemble composed primarily of trumpets, trombones, French horns, baritone, and tuba, under the direction of Mr. Robert Stewart. The Brass Choir performs music of a highly diverse nature, both in style and mood.

This past year, the choir participated in many University functions, such as the annual Parents' Weekend concert, University assemblies, exchange concerts, and tours to other universities. A trip to Sullins College with the University Glee Club marked the high point of the first semester. Various concerts and the annual tour highlighted the second semester.

Future projects for the choir include a possible European tour and making a record. With the loss of only one senior, Steve Unti, this year's president, the Brass Choir looks forward to next year with great expectations.

TROUBADORS

The Homecoming, King Lear, and "Arturo Ui" and a student script production. That was the challenge during the year, and between September and June it was work.

Lee Kahn, Ken Barnes and a group of active students had a new theatre to work in—or rather the same old garage with a new shop wing, stairs that didn't creak anymore, and not one, but two new offices.

Audiences squirmed at Max's pleas of "Kiss me!" They gaped at Gloucester's bloody eyes. And they applauded.

For this audience, students smeared grease on their faces, wallowed on a dusty stage, sliced their hands on broken glass, listened to endless "for my doughs" and "dommages," and learned.

It was work. It was drama. It was the Troubadour Theatre.

GLEE CLUB AND CONCERT GUILD

For about thirty men at the university this year, an idea of having a good time was to make a noise—a good noise. The members of the Washington and Lee University Glee Club, under director James Cook, gathered a varied repertoire of music, including Bach chorales, folk melodies, Broadway tunes, sea chanties, and spirituals.

The Beaux Arts String Quartet.

The debut performance was the traditional Parents' Weekend concert. This was followed by a journey to Sullins College for a series of Christmas programs. Then, following a winter break, the Glee Club hosted the Villanova Women's Glee Club for a March concert in Lee Chapel.

Then April brought the climactic Spring Tour, as the men harmonized their way to South Carolina to help that state celebrate its Tricentennial year. The final performance of the season was a May program in Lexington with the Goucher College Glee Club.

The Glee Club looks forward to another successful year, anticipating a European tour as a possible addition to the regular schedule.

The Concert Guild sponsors evening performances by noted masters in the musical field in Lee Chapel throughout the year. The Guild thus provides a valuable cultural asset to campus life, and a stimulus to participation by citizens of the surrounding area in activities of the University. The 1969-70 season included pianists John Savery, Anne McClenny, and Marion Perkins; Gary McMurran and Oliver Colbentson, Piano and Violin; the Beaux Arts Spring Quartet; and the English Consort of Viols.

The 12-man student board is responsible for stimulating interest through concentrated programs of publicity and campus participation.

THE SAZERACS

One of the more prominent pastimes of the assiduous Washington and Lee student is the partaking of bibulous refreshment. It is rare indeed when one comes across a group of people who profess this to be their main endeavor. One such group is the Sazeracs. They have been known to sing on occasion, but this happens only when they attain high-pitched states of euphoria. The several pulchritudinous domains of feminine education in the area are so wary of the effects of liquid retribution on the performers, they demand that payment for services rendered be in the form of either erotic stimulation or financial gain.

The group was founded by a wayward crooner who used to sing the 'Swing' in a New Orleans bar. Since that time the group has delighted audiences from coaster to coaster with their melodious warblings, or whatever.

CIRCLE K

The Circle K Club of Washington and Lee was founded in 1964 under the auspices of Kiwanis International. The club functions as a service organization for college men operating on the campus and is similar to Kiwanis and other service clubs.

Broadening the opportunities available to students, Circle K provides personal contact with business and professional leaders of the local community. In addition, the development of leadership is a goal of Circle K.

The Washington and Lee Circle K Club maintains many worthwhile activities. Recent projects have included sponsoring the United Fund Drive on the campus, and helping support a tutoring project at Lexington High School.

S. W. M. S. F. C.

The Student War Memorial Scholarship Fund Committee raises money for University to be used as a scholarship for sons of deceased veterans. The organization raises funds by selling cokes at the concerts at the Co-Op. In addition, it is in charge of the concessions for graduation invitations and caps and gowns. Further revenues are accumulated by means of checking coats at the Fancy Dress Ball. The annual fall raffle, with the drawing being held at Homecoming football games, raises more money.

STUDENT SERVICE SOCIETY

Officers: Waugh Crigler, President; Larry Miller, Vice-President, Randy Blood, Secretary.

The Student Service Society was formed for the purpose of assisting the University administration in the field of public relations. The main function of the group is to provide guided tours of the campus for visitors, prospective students, or groups who are interested in seeing and hearing about the University. Working generally in coordination with the office of admissions, each member offers about two hours of his free time a week, during which he points out some of the physical aspects of the campus, relates some history about Washington and Lee, and explains some of our traditions.

S.S.S. members also assist the Alumni Organization in planning for Homecoming and alumni reunions, the Administration on Parents' Weekend, the Debate Program during tournaments, and other groups during University functions.

DANCE BOARD

Mike McCall, Buddy Miller, Reed Byrum, Whitlow Wyatt, Bob Trout, Bob Jensen, Skip Nottberg, Bill Bauer, Dean Kumpuris, (President).

The Dance Board plays an integral part in the organization and supervision of the University's dance sets. It is composed of eight officers appointed by last year's outgoing and incoming president; in addition, the class presidents, the president of the student body, and the president of Fancy Dress are ex officio members.

These men choose the entertainers who appear at Washington and Lee and conduct the various affairs of a big weekend. This year, the Board has offered for the first time tickets to the student body, providing an individual with greater economic and personal selectivity of his entertainment. Also, one more concert has been added to the number of traditional weekends of Openings, Fancy Dress, Springs, and Finals; Homecoming festivities will now be enhanced by a concert. A third action has been the movement of Finals to an earlier date in the Spring, so more people will be able to appreciate it.

Serves American Industry

Why make the nation's business yours?

Because you seek a career with challenge. Purpose. You want to help. And you want to get involved.

You'll find opportunity and fulfillment in private business, built on the capitalistic system that has given us the world's highest living standards.

American business continually searches for new and improved products, for better ways to do things, and keep costs down. Wherever there are problems to solve — in our cities, in space, under the sea — private enterprise responds with the talent and resources to bring about efficient, workable solutions.

Your work and achievement in the corporate community can be satisfying and rewarding, your contribution important. Check into opportunities in business enterprise.
